

Original scientific article*DOMOVI J.N.A. – KULTURNI CENTRI ORUŽANIH SNAGA
SOCIJALISTIČKE CRNE GORESlavica STAMATOVIĆ VUČKOVIĆ<sup>1</sup>

Faculty of Architecture, Podgorica University of Montenegro

e-mail: slavicasv@ucg.ac.me

ABSTRACT:

This paper elaborates the topic “Houses of the Army”, that, during the socialist governance, presented important places for social life of every locality in which they were situated. Their function was determined by specific position of Yugoslav people’s Army and so these objects represent original example of diffusion of civil and military structures in one society. Here are treated Houses of the Army on the territory of Montenegro that were built between 1960s and 1990s of the XX century. It includes houses of the Yugoslav People’s Army in Podgorica (beginning of the 1960s) and Nikšić (1964), and also houses of the Yugoslav People’s Army in Pljevlja (1978) and Tivat (1989).

KEY WORDS:

Yugoslav People’s Army; House of the Army; Montenegro; Architecture; Culture.

---

<sup>1</sup> SLAVICA STAMATOVIĆ VUCKOVIC: Assistant professor at Faculty of Architecture in Podgorica, where she works since 2004. She is engaged in scientific research in the field of history and theory of architecture, interdisciplinary studies, public buildings and public space. Participated in the XI Venice Architecture Biennale 2008, as well as in a large number of national and international conferences, seminars and workshops. She was a mentor to several student workshops and conferences, and a member of several professional jury and working groups. She was one of the award winners of the 2009 Montenegro State Award.